REPORT

Date: January 4, 1939.

Subject: Japanese organs in the Hardoon Building, Nanking Road.

Made by: D.S. Kamashita

Forwarded by: C. Crawford

With reference to the attached query by D.C. (Special Branch), I have to state:-

1. The Shanghai Press Censorship Office was established in Room 218, Hardoon Building, Nanking Road, shortly after the occupation of Shanghai by the Japanese Forces. The Japanese Expeditionary Forces in Central China and the local Japanese Consulate-General being jointly responsible. Major S. Kaneko attached to the Headquarters of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces in Central China and Mr. Y. Akiba, Consul and Chief of the Second Section of the Japanese Consular Police were placed in charge and are still the responsible persons, although the functioning of the office is really carried out under the direction of Mr. Y. Kato.
2. The Greater Shanghai Radio Broadcasting Station was established by the Japanese Military authorities at the beginning of November, 1937, on Ningkuo Road, the main office being later removed to the Japanese Club, Boone Road, and after the fall of Nanking a sub-station was established in Rooms 220-222, Hardoon Building. This radio broadcasting station is controlled by Major K. Asano attached to the Headquarters of the Japanese Expeditionary Forces in Central China.
3. About the same time as the radio sub-station was established, the Shanghai Photo Production came into existence in Room 215 Hardoon Building and it is reported to be controlled also by the Japanese Military Authorities. This photo production office is mainly concerned in producing Japanese war pictures which are circulated to newspapers through the Press Union, 34 Avenue Edward VII.

4. The Broadcasting Superintendence Office occupies Room 316 and was inaugurated by the Japanese Military Authorities following the fall of Nanking with a view to having an effective control over radio stations in this locality. Major K. Asano, Chief of the Greater Shanghai Radio Broadcasting Bureau, is concurrently in charge of this office, but the affairs of the office are really under Mr. Y. Ban.
